1. Positioning and values

Our identity

The way we look is a direct reflection of what we stand for and our ambitions for the future. To communicate our messages clearly, we need to use our identity properly.

Who we are

We are the independent body which oversees elections and regulates political finance in the UK. We work to promote public confidence in the democratic process and ensure its integrity.

Our vision

Our vision is to be a world-class public sector organisation – innovative, delivering great value and getting right what matters most to voters and legislators.

Our goals

1. To enable the continued delivery of free and fair elections and referendums, focusing on the needs of electors and addressing the changing environment to ensure every vote remains secure and accessible.
2. To ensure an increasingly trusted and transparent system of regulation in political finance, overseeing compliance, promoting understanding amongst those regulated and proactively pursuing breaches.
3. To be an independent and respected centre of expertise, using knowledge and insight to further the transparency, fairness and efficiency of our democratic system, and help adapt it to the modern, digital age.
4. To provide value for money, making best use of our resources and expertise to deliver services that are attuned to what matters most to voters. This goal underpins and supports all of our work.

2. Language and tone

Language

As a regulator, we want people to understand what we are saying with no ambiguity. Anything we publish must be clear, consistent and concise. Pay particular attention to the language that you use and your tone of voice.

Plain language – six simple rules

1. Keep your sentences short
2. Use active verbs rather than passive ones
3. Avoid abstract nouns
4. Use lists where appropriate
5. Use 'you' and 'we'
6. Use everyday words and phrases

Our tone of voice

Clarity

As much of the work we publish is guidance, the language we use must be clear with no ambiguity. Put yourself in the position of the reader, and always assume that they won't have the same level of knowledge as you. Explain any technical terms and avoid jargon.

Authority

As a regulator it is important that we adopt a strong tone to assert our authority. Maintaining integrity and public confidence in the UK's democratic process is an important issue and it is vital that our publications and website reflect this. Using 'we' rather than 'the Commission' creates a strong sense of identity. Use powerful phrasing, such as 'we are disappointed', rather than 'we are concerned'.

3. Logos

Logo and variants

The logo comes in different colour versions to allow it to be adapted to a variety of purposes.

The Electoral
Commission

Colour logo (default)

The colour logo may be used for printed materials, both digital and litho, screen applications like Powerpoint, apps and websites, and for signage production and other materials like fabric, vinyl etc.

The

Black logo

The black logo may be used for laser printed output, e.g. fax and low resolution print (press advertising).

The
Electoral
Commission

White logo

The white logo may be used on colour or photographic backgrounds. It should also be used where legibility of the full-colour logo could be compromised.

Applying the logos

To maximise the impact of our logos, they should always appear prominently and legibly.

The logo is based on the primary corporate colour palette. The lettering has been created from specially drawn characters, which have been carefully aligned with one another. The relationship between the lettering is fixed and should never be manipulated or adjusted. Do not attempt to re-create the lettering or adjust their alignment. Always use the master artwork provided when reproducing a logo.

The English logo

The Welsh logo

The Scottish Gaelic logo

If using multiple Commission logos, such as on bilingual materials, always ensure that all logos receive equal treatment, and none is larger or more prominent than any other.

The Welsh logo should appear first if you are using the Welsh and English logo together.

Please make sure the logos are the same height.

The Gaelic logo will be used on an ad hoc basis in Scotland for publications or promotional materials which may be deployed in areas with significant populations of Gaelic speakers or Gaelic language advocates.

The logo in detail

Our logo is central to the visual identity. Each logo not only identifies the organisation, but also represents everything we stand for.

Logo sizes

Our logo size is calculated by working out a percentage of the page width or height, depending on whether the format is portrait or landscape.

Logo position

Our logo should ideally always appear in the top left corner, but may be placed in any corner if needed.

If using an grid, the logo should fit within the parameters of the grid structure. Where a grid structure is not in place, please preserve the logo minimum clear space.

Where possible, we recommend using our templates which have already been set up with the correct logo sizes.

For A4 portrait format, the logo size is determined by the width of the page. Work out what 10.4% of the page width is, as this gives you the height of the Electoral Commission logo.

10.4% of page width

10.4% of page height

For A4 landscape format, the logo size is determined by the height of the page. Work out what 10.4% of the page height is, as this gives you the height of the Electoral Commission logo.

Other logos sizes

Aspect ratio is expressed as a figure and describes the width and height of a format e.g. 4:3 (width always comes first).

For the correct logo size to a specific aspect ratio, work out what 10.4% of the height is, and this will give you the height of our logo.

This is a general rule and discretion should be used for particularly long or tall formats.

Please remember to not go below the absolute minimum height of 11.3/32 pixels.

Please note that the 16:9 logo in the example to the left appears below the minimum size and is for illustrative purposes only.

The

The Electoral

3:2

Logo clear space

The clear space zone is measured using multiples of the height of the 'n' of 'Commission'. Never put any other graphic element or text within this space. This is the minimum distance logos should be placed from the edge of a page.

Minimum size

Our logo should not be used below our minimum size of 32 pixels or 11.3 mm high. This is so that the character height of the logo is equivalent to 12pt.

Cobranding key principles

Brand dominance

Brand dominance means one partner will have the lead presence in communications, and the placement of logos communicates this.

The dominant brand is always on the left or on top, secondary/partner logo is always on the right or on the bottom.

- Use our full color logo as default on a white background whenever possible.
- The logos should be of the same visual size, and aligned horizontally and vertically.

Double clear space

When the logos have been aligned, separate them by the distance of two n's as shown in the example on the right.

Other partnerships

Not all partnerships have clear brand dominance. In cases of equal partnership, please place logos in alphabetical order.

Incorrect usage

Always scale the logos using the master artwork. Do not manipulate or alter them in any way. Examples here show incorrect use of our logo.

Please avoid doing any of the following:

1. Change the logo colour
2. Rotate the logo
3. Transform the logo
4. Outline the logo
5. Use the incorrect version of the logo
6. Adjust the logo's opacity
7. Apply effects to the logo
8. Change the logo's typeface
9. Place the logo on an overly complicated background
10. Used the logo below our recommended minimum size
11. Encroach on the logo's clear space
12. Introduce imagery within the logo

4. Colours

Colour is key to our visual identity. It instantly adds impact, but more importantly, consistent use of specific colours creates ownership and builds powerful associations with our organisations.

The primary colour palette is derived from our logo. It consists of EC dark blue and EC light blue and forms the foundation of our visual identity. Although not a specified colour, white plays a key role in creating clarity and breathing space across all applications. White represents the transparency that is key to our aims. The use of white ensures communications are clear, compelling and uncluttered; for example, using an area to hold the logo on the front cover of literature.

Secondary colour palette

A set of secondary colours have been developed as an extension of our corporate colour palette. They have been chosen to complement our primary colours, not to replace them. Secondary colours have no fixed relationship with any particular activity or sub division.

Tints of secondary colours may be used for background colour, panels, charts and diagrams, and to complement a solid colour.

Red Green Blue for screen based software like Powerpoint and the MS Office suite

Hexadecimal for digital design like websites and apps

CMYK for 4-colour print on both litho and digital printing presses

Pantone (special colour print) for signage production and other materials like fabric, vinyl etc

Always use the correct specification to achieve the most accurate match.

5. Typography

Our corporate typeface for design products is Swiss 721. It is a versatile sans serif typeface that is both functional and distinctive – it is highly legible, economical with space and lends impact to any communication.

Important: All Commission publications should conform to the Royal National Institute of the Blind's accessibility guidelines, to help ensure that our materials are usable by partially sighted people. This means that no text, except for footnotes, headers and footers, should be smaller than 12pt.

For web and digital publication, we comply with Level AA of WCAG's Accessibility standards: w3.org/TR/WCAG20

To test AA accessibility, use one of the online tools: achecker.ca/checker/index.php

Swiss 721 should be used when creating bespoke design products in Adobe Creative Suite: InDesign, Illustrator and Photoshop.

The well considered proportions of the typeface mean that it is suitable for use both at large type sizes (e.g. display graphics and signage) and at smaller sizes, both in print and on digital devices.

6. Corporate imagery

Corporate level imagery should reflect our brand attributes of engaged, authoritative, transparent, independent and making an impact.

Please note: Campaign imagery is different from corporate level imagery and should be considered with the individual campaign's requirements in mind.

Engaged

Where possible try to create a feeling of being part of the election process, for example taking a first person perspective when you compose a photograph or use real life situations as a starting point for a collage.

Authoritative

Try to avoid jokes, visual cliches or anything too 'playful'. We have an important part to play in maintaining integrity and public confidence in the democratic process and as such needs to be seen as credible and authoritative.

Transparency

Because we are transparent, pick photography that feels genuine, of real people in real life situations. Avoid overly processed styles of photography and computer generated imagery, as it can be perceived as fake. Our illustration style is an exception to this rule, but each collage should always be based on realistic photo compositions.

Independent

To create a strong sense of identity, aim to use positive imagery that shows confidence and clarity. Whether that's your choice of photos or illustrations, or the pull quotes you choose to use.

Making an impact

We want to be effective and make an impact, and so our corporate level imagery needs to be shared across a variety of channels. Image composition should therefore be selected and designed to digital channels or print formats.

6.1 Icons

Our icon style has been chosen to reflect the simplicity of our corporate typeface, Swiss 721.

If there's an icon you'd like created, please get in touch with the Corporate Communications team.

Colour

You can use any of the colours from our corporate colour palette for your icons, as long as you only use one colour per publication. This will keep your design clear and consistent.

To change the colour of an existing icon within Powerpoint, please select an icon from the overview slide at the end of the presentation and copy and paste this into the slide you want to use it on – then apply your chosen colour from the palette.

For colour changes of any other format, please contact the Corporate Communications team.

Size

Please make sure that all icons are the same size within the same publication.

Both solid and outlined icons can be used. However, at smaller sizes we recommend using a solid version of the icon for clearer visibility. ✔

6.2 Illustration

Our illustration style is inspired by handmade collages.

It is bold, clear, and free from unnecessary detail, allowing the depiction of people to remain neutral in age and ethnicity.

The colour palette and illustration technique are set, but there is room for creativity in the composition, tone and selection of colour.

6.3 Photography

Continuing on from our overarching corporate imagery guidance, we recommend that our photography always feels genuine.

- Avoid over-processing or manipulating images in photo editing software, with the exception of our illustration style.
- Always aim to use real people or objects in real-life situations.
- Try to keep a consistent depth of focus across all images and aim to avoid extreme shifts in depth of field.
- Compose or select imagery that has a clear subject matter and focus of attention.
- Use imagery that is as uncluttered as possible.

6.4 Charts, graphs and information

There are templates available in Excel with built-in instructions of how to create charts and graphs.

Here are some examples:

If you need to highlight something within your chart – please apply one of the colours in the custom palette. Please only use one of these colours, to maintain clarity in your document.

Once you have created your chart/graph in Excel, copy and paste it into your publication either as an image (if no further data editing is required) or as a linked file (in PPT and Word) which will update if the Excel data is changed.

Please do not stretch the size of the chart once pasted.

A chart that is copied/pasted as an image should not be scaled up, since it would lose its resolution.

If you use a linked chart, you may scale it up and down, but please keep the text size at 12p.

Our Powerpoint templates also feature built-in charts and graphs, which can be adapted independently of Excel, in case this is needed.

For information you want to highlight in a key piece of content, mix small and large typography, and illustrate with corporate icons.

If you're creating your own infographic using design features for a report or web page, please consult with the Corporate Communications team.

To create variation in a mainly text based document, introduce divider pages with illustrations and top level messaging/pull-out quotes.
