

Resources for Educators | Electoral Commission    Search

Resources for Educators You are in the Welcome to your vote section Home Welcome to your vote Your location: Change England Northern Ireland Scotland Wales Overseas

We're showing you content for . Select 'change' to choose a different location.

Overseas voters We're showing you content for England. Select 'change' to see information for other parts of the UK. Introduction We want to show young people that politics and democracy impacts everything around them. From how long they stay in education to the rules of renting, from 5G availability to how often bins are collected. Discussing these topics, and encouraging young people to think about how they can make their voices heard, can help them to become engaged voters and citizens for years to come. We want to provide young people with the knowledge and understanding they need to create change in their communities. We want to give them confidence to vote, and to understand that their vote matters. Tell us what you think about these resources in this short survey.

Introduction We want to show young people that politics and democracy impacts everything around them. From how long they stay in education to the rules of renting, from 5G availability to how often bins are collected. Discussing these topics, and encouraging young people to think about how they can make their voices heard, can help them to become engaged voters and citizens for years to come. Right now, more people can vote in Scotland than ever before. 16 and 17 year olds can vote in Scottish Parliament and council elections. It doesn't matter where they were born or what their nationality is, as long as they are a resident of Scotland. Tell us what you think about these resources in this short survey.

Introduction We want to show young people that politics and democracy impacts everything around them. From how long they stay in education to the rules of renting, from 5G availability to how often bins are collected. Discussing these topics, and encouraging young people to think about how they can make their voices heard, can help them to become engaged voters and citizens for years to come. Right now, more people can vote in Wales than ever before. 16 and 17 year olds can vote in Senedd and local council elections. It doesn't matter where they were born or what their nationality is, as long as they are a resident of Wales. We want to provide young people with the knowledge and understanding they need to create change in their communities. We want to give them confidence to vote, and to understand that their vote matters. Tell us what you think about these resources in this short survey.

Resources Education resources Find lesson places, activities and assembly resources to use with pupils. Date published: 19 July 2023 Welcome to Your Vote Week 2024

Register your interest for Welcome to your Vote Week, taking place in January 2024.

Stay up to date newsletter sign up Sign up to our newsletter to be the first to hear about our political literacy updates. Your location: Change England Northern Ireland Scotland Wales Overseas We're showing you content for . Select 'change' to choose a different location.